Are you an Educator, Coach or Mentor looking for powerful words that will inspire and motivate your students, team or mentees?

Do you have an audience or group in need of encouragement and words of wisdom that will help them to reach higher and fulfill unseen potential in their lives?

Daily inspirational quotes can be life-changing and potentially reverse a previously uninspired and unfulfilled existence. This is especially true as it relates to education and student achievement. A series of papers released by the Center on Education Policy (CEP) at George Washington University suggest that our educational institutions have not placed enough focus on what it takes to get students motivated in school.

Lack of motivation is a real and serious problem. Greater than 40% of high school students are disengaged from school chronically. This is according to a 2003 National Research Council report on motivation. Students who are motivated to learn show higher achievement, better understanding of concepts, are more satisfied with school and have lower dropout rates. This is based on studies reviewed by Edward Deci and colleagues.

The single biggest determinant of achievement and success in the classroom is student motivation. This not only holds true for academic success but also in life. Passion to reach any goal will trump skill and intellect many times over. In order to have passion, one must be inspired and motivated. Inspirational and motivational quotations can be the basis and foundation to maintain a level of passion and grit to reach goals. They also can directly be used to encourage and foster excellence within our classrooms.
